New AND MOST VALUABLE MEDICINES For hitherto intractable and incurable diseases. No none Cod Liver Oil.

GRIMAULT SYRUP OF IODIZED HORSE HADISH.

Prepared by Grimault and Co., Chemists of Paris, according to the certification of the physicians of the Paris hospitals, idealed in the printed directions, and with the approbation of several academics, this Syrup is employed with the greatest success, in pines of Cod Liver Oil, to which it is infinitely superior. It cures diseases of the chest, scrofula, lymphatic disorders, green sickness, muscular atomy, and loss of appatite. It regenerates the canatiunion by purifying the blood, and is, in a word, the most powerful depurative known. It never fatigues the stomach and bowelr like Iodiče of Potassium and the Iodide of Iron, and is administered with the greatest efficacy to young children subject to humours or obstruction of the glands. Dr. Cazenave of Saint Louis Hospital, Paris, recommends it particularly in diseases of the skin, to be taken with his Pilla mentioned above. This Syrup of Iodized Horso Radish is a sapital adjunct to Dr. Loras's Phosphate of Iron.

DR. BURIN DU BUISSON'S DIORSTIVE LO-

of Iron,

DR. HURIN DU BUISSON'S DIGRSTIVE LOZENGES AND POWDERS OF THE ALKALINE LACTATES.

The alkaline lactates exercise the most beneficial influence over the devangements of digestion, either by their peculiar action on the mucous membrane of the stomach, or by affording to the latter through their combination with the saliva to the gastrie julce, a supply of lactic acti which all Rnglish, Freuch, and other physiologists admit to be an essential principle of digestion. For the information of those who may be without medical advice, it may be stated here that the symptoms of impaired digestion are—Head-ache, pain in the forchead, humiorania, gastritis, gastralgis, heartburn, wind in the stomach and bowels, loss of appellic, exactation, &c. All these soon disappear under the action of the Alkaline Lectates, which may be always had in lozenges or powders.

selion of the Alkaline Lactates, which may be always had in locenges or powders.

No more poverty of the blood and pale complexion.

DR. LBRAS'S PHOSPHATR OF IRON.

This new ferruginous medicine contains the elements of the blood and bones, and iron in a liquid state. It is different from all hitherto offered to the public, is liquid, colourless, and tasteless. It speedily cures shorous, pains in the stomach, difficult digestion, dysmenorrhum, anomia, and advantageously supersede Carbonate of Iron, hon reduced by Hydrogen, Lactate of Iron, the Pilis of Potsasic latirate of Iron and loddie of Iron. The unijority of the Academies of Medicine of Paris, recommend the Phosphate of Iron to is dies of delicate constitution suffering from anomia, and all other persons fatigued from over anxiety, nervous cuspions, overwork, general debility, and powness of blood.

It is the only preparation which never causes constipation, and can be borne by the most delicate stomachs. It is the best adjunct to the Syrup of Iedized Horseradish and Royal Elistir of Yellow Peruvian Bark.

DR. CAZEMAVE'S VEGETABLE PILLS.

Superior to all other pills. A trial would be their 'east recommendation. Whenever a purgative is resputed for billious and pitultons attacks, these may be safely used, because they cause neither mause nor coile, and may be taken as digestives at meal or bed time.

D. R. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLOROPYNE.—
Vice-Chancellor Sir W. Page Wood stated publiely in Court that Dr. J. Collis Browne was undoubtedly the Inventor of Chlorodyne, that the whole story of the defendant Freeman was deliberately untrue, and ha regretted to say it had been aworn to.—See The Times, July 13, 1864.

The Right Hon. Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians and J. T. Davenport that he had received information to the effect that the only remedy of any service in cholera was Chlorodyne.—See LANCET, December 31, 1864.

Extract from MEDICAL TIMES, January 12, 1866, —"Is prescribed by scores of orthodox medical practi-tioners. Of course it would not be thus singularly popular did it not 'supply a want and fill a place."

BY ROYAL LETTERS PATENT,
Inventor and Patentee: A, CROWNSON.

Inventor and Patentee: A. CROWNSON.

IMPORTANT INVENTION.

To Bushmen, Explorers, Surveyors, Tourists, Sportamen, &c. — PATENT FORTABLE CAMP TENT FIRATE, weighing from 1 lb. upwards, packed into a small compase, light, strong, and carried with as little inconvenience as an umbrella—various sizes—to be that with or without Olicioth, Zeal, or Morquito Net Covering.

The Inventor and Patentee of this really useful article estudiently solicis the struction of the public to its practicable importance; the lightness of the frame; the small compase into which it can be packed; the case with which, in less than two minutes, it can be put together, and the absence of all complicated mechanism in its construction, are among the more prominent of its recommendations.

To the Digger, the Surveyor, the Bushman, and all whose business or pleasure may necessitate "camping in the bush," the Patent Portable Camp Tent is invaluable, Covered with a mosquilo not, they defy the most persovering aszaults of those pests. Again, if the ordinary Tent material be used, protection is afforded from the heat of the sum or the night dews. If the traveller be caught in a storm, be cam in a few minutes escure himmelf from the rain by drawing the oliskin covering over the frame.

They are of different sizes. The weight of the largest, however, being insignificant; but nevertheless they are so constructed as to possess great strength, and can only be injured by gross careferencess. The patentee respectfully invites impection of this really useful invention, and, without vanity, challenges comparison with any other article of the kind which may at any time have been placed before the public.

CINGER and CO.'S LOCK STITCH SEWING MACHINES. — GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES.—In consequence of the increased demand for SINGER and CO.'S unrivalled Lock-Stiten Sowing Machines, we are now enabled, and have this day
REDUCED THE PRICES nearly FIFTEEN PERI CENT. The superiority of these machines over all other sewing machines requires no comment. Their simplicity, durability, and beauty of stitch is universally asknowledged:
They stitch, hem, fell bind, gather, tuck, quit, braid, and, in short, will do a greater variety of work than the sewing machine of any other manufacturer. Price, with braider, £12 10s. No charge for instructions to purchasers.

PHILIP M'CARROLL Wonderful reduction in the price of Boof, take notice of the list of prices below.

This present week M Carroll as leader of the trade, Astunishing reduction in overything has made; And like a thing electric, or a gale of wind on chaff. Has sent high prices flying and reduced them to one-half. To him the people always lock—and never yet in wain The moment when the time had come, he thought of them again.

I he moment when the time and come, no thought of then again.

Now all his shops exhibit their rich and vast supplies.

That competition in the town he utterly define.

How strange it is with butchers however cheap they buy

To fall the price a farthing they never seem to try;

But quote M 'Carroll's prices, that's the only thing they do,

And send about their placards as though the thing was

DEPOT, 477, OBONGE-STREBT.

The undersigned invite the attention of Communer and the Trade to the quality of the ILLUMINATING Oll now produced from the works of the ILAUMINATING Oll now produced from the works of the ILAUMINATING Oll now produced from the works of the ILAUMINATING Oll now produced from the works of the ILAUMINATING Oll now produced from the works of the ILAUMINATING (Limited), and which they are prepared to supply for home consumption, or for additioned; any quantities. Not only is it unaurposed by the very best imported oils, but the Company guarantee that It will give, as compared with the best American oils, the following results:

1. It will prive a better now fuller light.

2. It will urn considerably longer.

3. From its richness in parallia or carbon, it is prifectly free from all danger, which the American oils are not.

4. It is to a great extent free from the disagreeable smill streading the imported oils.

A prejudice has arisen against "Colonial" Keresens Oil, in consequence of a very inferior article being sail under this name; it is, therefore, necessary that the purchaser should be able to assure himself that what he obtain a the genuine "Hartiey" Oil.

For this purpose, a trade mark, A STAR, has ben adopted and registered; it will be affixed in brass on each tin, and any party forging it will be guilty of a misdemanur. The Company would, therefore, feel particularly obliged by any person having a bad article supplied to them, as "Hartley" Oil, sending it to the Dopot in erder that they may presecute offending parties.

They have opened a Depot for its asset as 4477, GEORGE-STREET, three doors south of Bathurst-street, and appointed Mr. R. NOTT their agent, to whom orders my be now addressed, for large or small quantities.

To give all an opportunity of obtaining it as produced from the works it will be sold from the Depot and present at FOUR SIIILLINGS PER GALLON, the wholesale dealers and country aforekeepers will to Beradies and country aforekeepers will be liberally dealt wit

The Sydney Morning Berald.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1866.

In the Legislative Assembly, yesterday,
In reply to questions put to Ministers, the following information was elicited—that the trial of William Henry Scott, charged with murder, had been postponed by order of Mr. Junice Cheeke, on the ground of the prejudice prevailing against him in the public mind;—that it rested with the Corporation to form and ballast the new atreets in the newly reclaimed land in Woolloomooloo Hay;—that the Government would call for tenders for the construction of the Great Western Railway, from No. & contract to the town of Bathurst, as soon as they were in possession of funds; that the Attorney-General was not charged with the construction of railways, but that it was not the fact that any of his colleagues had recommended the stoppage of the Great Western Railway at Wallarowong with a view to the construction of a branch line of railway from Goulburn to Wagga Waggs.

Mr. Wilson brought up a bill to provide for the reduction and gradual abolition of the duty on gold, which was read a first time.

Petitions were presented by Mr. Hannell, from the Chairman of the Newcastle Gaslight and Coal Company, praying for leave to introduce a private bill, and by Mr. Roirestrason, from residents of the Clarence River, praying for the construction of a bridge at Lismore.

The Order of the Day for a call of the House to and by Mr. Romertson, from residents of the Clarence River, praying for the construction of a bridge at Lismore.

The Order of the Day for a call of the House to consider the adjourned debate on the State-aid question having been read,
Mr. Macurerison moved that the roll be called over, which was ordered.
The roll was called over when fifty-six hon, members answered to their names.
Mr. Macurerison's motion that the Speaker leave the chair, and that the House go into Committee to consider his proposed resolution, was then put and carried by 27 to 26.

The House then went into Committee.
Mr. Macurerison moved an address to the Governor praying his Excellency to recommend by message to the House the permanent appropriation out of the Consolidated Revenue Fund, of the sum of £28,000 annually for defraying the expenses of public worship.
Mr. Buchanan moved as an amendment that the sum be reduced by £27,999 19s. 113d.
Mr. Diarka, Mr. Egan, and Mr. Cumming, supported the resolution.
The amendment was negatived by 24 to 20.
Mr. Duiven then moved that the Chairman leave the chair, report progress, and ask leave to sit orgain this day week.
Mr. Buchanan then moved that the sum be reduced by £27,999 19s. 113d.
Mr. Harr raised a point of order that the resolution, being for the appropriation of a specific sum, it was not competent for the committee to entertain a motion for the reduction of that sum, and moved that the Chairman leave the chair and report the point of order to the Speaker.

After some discussion,

The Chairman leave the chair and report the point of order to the Speaker.

After some discussion,
The motion was carried by 27 to 22.
Mr. Symanker ruled that the committee had power to alter and amend the resolution in any way it might see fit.

to after and amend the resolution in any way it might see fit.

Mr. Pindinoron then raised the point of order that the committee not having asked leave to sit again, there was no power for it ty resume.

After a long discussion,

Mr. Spraken ruled that the objection was a fatal one, and that the committee had lapsed.

Mr. Macrinesson then moved the adjournment of the House for the purpose of censuring the conduct of the Chairman of Committees in not making the suggestion to the hon, member (Mr. Hart) who raised the point of order in committee that it was necessary to ask leave for the committee to sit again.

After a long discussion, the motion was negatived After a long discussion, the induous was negative by 24 to 15.

The adjourned debate on the metion of Mr. Cowren for a return of all opinions given by Grown law officers, respecting the power of the Executive Government to grant free railway tickets to members of Parliament, and of any correspondence which has taken place between the Secretary for Public Works and members of l'arliament, was resumed by Mr. Darvan, who contended that the papers ought to be produced for the satisfaction of the public. He moved an amendment extending the return to correspondence between the Secretary for Public Works and members of Parliament and any other persons.

The amendment was agreed to.
Mr. Robertson urged that the papers ought to be produced as they would expose a nefarious job.
The House had a right to the production of these papers.

Mr. Fonsten hoped that the papers would be produced as great dissatisfaction was felt out of doors at the privilege which had been conferred. The House ought to be above the suspicion of seeking an insignificant privilege. inflicant privilege.

After some observations from Mr. Morrice and Mr. Oatley, and from Mr. Cowrri in reply,
The motion was negatived by 27 to 16.
The House adjourned at half-past 10.

THE interest we feel on all accounts in what is passing in America will fix the attention of our readers on the items of intelligence which show its present state. We must remind our readers that the past must be their guide in estimating the future, and that they must regard all intelli gence which reaches them upon American affairs in the light of the channel through which it comes.

We have been told, time after time, of the vast popularity of the President. No term of culogy ever applied to the highest forms of statesmanship and public virtue have been with held from this eminent man. Our own Press has teemed with praise, and as he has pro-ceeded step by step, the only cloud which has overcast the beaming satisfaction of his admirers has been in the obvious inconsistency of his position, and the difficulty of persuading the people of America that European statesmen and public writers know best what would promote the dignity and glory of the American nation. The term of effice possessed by this distinguished functionary is, however, drawing to a close. The elections which are to determine who shall be his successor will take place before long. He came into office, not originally intended to fill the high position he now occupies; and when the death of Lincoln deprived his country of one of its noblest and purest patriots and statesmen, Mr. Johnson occupied his seat amidst the forebodings and misgivings of all The circumstances attending his nations. nauguration were indeed such as to shock those who have a strong sense of propriety. Probably those who do not hold drunkenness or its consequences in much disesteem felt that it was not exactly the condition in which the chief magistrate of a great nation should take upon himself the supreme authority. We were told, however, that this authority. We were told, however, that uns was only a misfortune; and, willing to believe all that was said in his favour, those who admired his avowed policy found excuses which certainly would not have been heard connected with the name of LINCOLN. Mr. JOHNSON, indeed, preferred the Union to slavery, and because the Union could not subsist in harmony with the "peculiar institution" of the South he joined in the policy by which it was condemned and abandoned. In this probably he was sincere, not, however, that he entertained those views of human rights which were the basis of that agitation by which slavery was overthrown. There are multitudes of men who care little for human rights as such. They are opposed to slavery just as Mr. Davis professed to be to the yoke, but because of some of the consequences entailed on the social life and national prospects of the people who maintained it. Mr. JOHNSON would abelish slavery: JEFFERSON DAYIS declared against the slave trade. JOHNSON would abolish slavery to preserve the Union : JEFFER-SON DAVIS expressed his determination to son Davis expressed his determination to son Davis expressed his determination to abolish the slave trade because its continuance lowered the value of slave property, and placed the Southern people in irreconcilable hos-tility to the law of nations. It is not, therefore, to persons who deal with such questherefore, to persons who don't with such ques-tions in such a spirit that we are to look for stubborn resolution in combating the systems which they may nevertheless no longer defend. Mr. Johnson would have been glad to see slavery abolished, but the social condition of the slave preserved. He would have liked to see him no longer sold at auction, but at the same time under the control of the ruling class, subjugated to their power by police regula-tions which would have had all the force subjugated to their power by ponce regard-tions which would have had all the force without many of the ameliorating accompani-ments possible to slavery. This has been, indeed, the battle to be fought, and upon which Mr. Johnson has staked the issue of his Government. It is upon this that he has been Government. It is upon this that he has been cheered by the European Press—by every aristocratic writer—by all who hold a solemn conviction that it is necessary for the welfare of the world that the great body of the people should be compressed and immovable masses. No doubt, the views entertained on the subject are modified by the position and temper of the persons who hold them. Some would assume more and some less as being would assume more and some less, as being necessary to a high state of refined civilisation. Some would keep all of ebony colour in a condition of serfdom. They would lighten the weight of power as colour brightened or rather grew lighter, until finally the last shade should touch upon perfect equality and political freedom. But, on the other hand, the lighter the difficulty exists, which is met by a thousand expediently exists, which is met by a thousand expediently, from the entire subjection to the ruling class of the millions, to the expulsion of all who could have any pretension from colour to live on an equality with their colours constitute the danger of a serf-holding aristocracy. To weed them out would be their only safe policy. To destroy them as the belots were destroyed would not be tolerated by men who bear the Christian name. Thus masters. We have no doubt that many of the reproaches cast upon Northern men are perfectly just. There is a class of Northern men who would sell their own brethren. But it is the folly and disgrace of British writers that they choose to confound all in one condemnation, and, excepting a small body of persons they designate as fanatics, assume that all are secretly favourable to slavery, or at least to the oppres-sion of the slave. The war has, however, rendered all these calumnies ridiculous. The money spent—the blood shed—the life lost—the enormous and long-continued sacrifices by which the Northern people have shown their firmness in that cause which they have espoused, have rendered these insinuations idle and vulgar. The men that have won this great battle by such sacrifices are determined that they will not lose its fruits. Hence the contention between them and Presiden President JOHNSON. Mass meetings may be held, loud speeches may be made. In America great species of persons in different places espouse various opinions, but one thorough resolution of the North is that slavery shall be destroyed—that it shall not be in the power of the South to revive it—that there shall be no new war of colour. They hold that the political power of the South shall be measured by the white population which it contains, or if the whole be represented, that the whole shall have an effec-tive weight in the management of affairs. It is preposterous to suppose that men having their eyes open will permit the slave-holding faction to waste the funds derived from pspulation against the very people whose numbers they count, to assert their special and peculiar political power. The avowed object of many who support the policy of Mr. Johnson is, that the South shall come in without conditions—event. South shall come in without conditions-except South shall come in without conditions—except-ing a loose renunciation of slavery—and that the South shall then be placed under its old masters, and revive in the Government of America the authority and influence which they abused and lost. If it were not that there has sprung up an idea that somehow or other the Governments of Europe are interested in the aristocratic South it would be incredible that Englishmen could wish it success. The constant effort of the South has been to involve stant effort of the South has been to involve England in difficulties with America. The last hope of the Confederates was a war with Europe. Their chief men have always stirred up a feeling of bitter animosity against the old country, and if they acquire ascendency they would immediately seek a quarrel with Europe, not only in reverge for former.

perhaps overturning the American Constitution itself. All this is seen by the North. Hence the vociferations we have heard so long about the immense popularity of Mr. Johnson and the triumph of his policy—the hatred of the radicals—are growing weaker and weaker. It is tolerably clear that whoever may be the next ruler of America it will not be President Johnson. It may be easily supposed that the proceedings of this remarkable man have not been very grateful to the more refined of his countrymen. A President occupying the stump, pour men. A President occupying the stump, pouring out from bar windows invectives against the Congress,—using the coarsest imagery to illustrate his opinions, and mixing them with references to physical force and personal vengeance,— all this must be rather disgusting to an American who, besides wishing his Government to have strength and influence in the world, may desire that its tone and language shall be copied not from the lowest strata of society, but from that which at least shall harmonise with the language and spirit of its most illustrious statesmen of past ages. How small was America under the sway of Washington compared with her present force and grandeur! But how humiliating to reflect that a Journson amidst the acclamations of Europe, in treating of the highest interests and destiny of his country, uses the language of a brawler. IT appears that the wires fibbed a little last month about our short-dated loan, and gave a somewhat more favourable account of its nego tiation than the real state of the case warranted The loan was subscribed for at 90, and not at 95, as we were led to believe, and the rate of interest, taking into account the terms of payment, is said to be equal to nine per cent. So that we have made no direct money saving by the transaction, as the Bank rate is now down to four and a-half per cent, and the one per cent. advance upon that which we are bound by agreement to give would make our paying rate only five and a-half. As long as it was dearer to overdraw than to sell we stuck bravely to the policy of overdraft. Just when it became The loan was subscribed for at 90, and not at slave trade,—not on account of the wrong the policy of overdraft. Just when it became done to the persons subjected to the cheaper to overdraw than to sell, we sold.

However, the clearing off of the heavy obliga-tion at the bank has made it easy to get advances again, and such advances at present rates will not stand us in more than 51 per cent., with a prospect of a fall to 5 per cent. The selling price of the ordinary Deben-tures is said to be 86, and it is expected that at this rate a demand will set in. Taking into account the repayment of the principal, this gives an interest of over 6 per cent. Money must get yet cheaper or our securities must riso in favour before we can borrow on the same terms that we used to do. However, as it will be far better to sell in London at 86 than to borrow in the local market, there is no ground for anticipating that the Treasurer will posch any more on the deposits in the banks, or divert to public works money that is being used in commerce. Queensland, too, can now sell its six per cents. at 90, which is better than borrowing in the local market at ten per cent. To get the two Governments out of the market as borrowers, is a relief to local mercantile affairs, as it prevents any further deduction of the capital that is being used in banking.

At the same time as the difficulties under At the same time as the difficulties under which the colony is suffering were not all due to the menetary panic in London, so neither will they be instantaneously relieved by the cessation of that panic. The external cause aggravated and brought to a crisis the local symptoms, but for those symptoms there was a local cause. Cheap money in London is a great relief, but it is not a perfect cure. That must come from a return of local prosperity.

Losses that have been incurred during the past three years have had their financial results largely concentrated during the past three months. Hitherto those losses have been represented by an expanded credit. The sudden restriction of that credit makes the loss apparent and felt, and even exaggerates it where rent and felt, and even exaggerates it where forced sales have to be submitted to in order to ruise cash and meet peremptory demands.

Credit, while invaluable in mercantile opera-

Credit, while invaluable in mercantile opera-tions as answering the purposes of capital, is liable to the drawback that on sudden occasions it fails to answer that purpose, and that too just when it is most needed that it should do so. It betrays those who have trusted too much to it. In the private transactions of in-dividuals, and in the general mercantile trans-actions of a country there is a certain propor-tion which cannot be safely covertretened. tion which cannot be safely overstretened between the transactions based on cash and those based on credits. In epochs of monetary disturbance those who have transgressed the line farthest suffer the heaviest punishment. There is a tendency both in good times and in bad times for the limit to be passed. When in bad times for the limit to be passed. When all classes are prosperous every one can obtain credit, for every one is supposed to be doing well. Speculation is stimulated by the general tone of hopefulness, and by the abundance of wealth. It is not till the reaction comes that it is found that men have borrowed and lent too much on the faith of future profits the event date of the reaction. profits, the exact date of the realisation of which has been postponed sine die. In bad times, too, there is a tendency to an insafe expansion of credit. As successive losses fare experienced, persons whose credit will still allow of it, increase their bill transwill still allow of it, increase their bill trans-actions, credit acting as a sort of elastic air actions, credit acting as a sort of elastic air cushion, able to take the blow of a sudden loss without a sudden jar. At a time, too, when the value of property is declining people are reluctant to sell, and hoping for better times they pledge their securities, and get temporary advances on the strength of them. New beginners, too, in stores, and on stations, and on free selections, find themselves owing to the badness of the times, unable to pay in cash as they had in-tended, and they extend instead of diminishing the credit they began with, rather than abandon the undertakings in which they have sunk so much labour and so much hope. In such cases the increase of discounts represents not new speculations but deferred hopes and renewed promises. All this may go on very safely if pending the time when the real profits will be secured that are to discharge or reduce these liabilities, no financial pinch is experienced that arrests or diminishes the credit. If that comes, then securities of all kinds diminish in value, and nominal assets suffer a sudden deprecia What were considered substantial resources turn out to be unavailable at a pinch. The expansion of credit has been perhaps somewhat aided by the large flow of capital to the banks on deposit—a circumstance due to the fact that so many of the adventures which ordinarily absorb the savings of the community had proved unremunerative, and therefore unattractive. Persons with a small sun to invest preferred a moderate fixed interest from the banks to the chances of the share market. All forms of mining industry were under a cloud. Copper, coal, gold, iron, had all disappointed those who had put their trust in them. Nothing attracted investors but the banks, and this tended to augment the credit operations of the country.

The state of affairs was not improved by the fact that in several articles imports were in excess of requirements, and that to losses from the non-receipt of expected produce from the interior were added heavy losses from the receipt of too much produce from abroad. No one single cause has been responsible for the present depression. Losses on old stations, the delay of profit from new stations, losses on old farms, the delay of profit on new farms, losses in mining adventures, losses on mercantile speculations, all accumulated together to swell credit transactions. The absorption by the two Governments of money used in banking, combined with the news of the monetary p England, suddenly arrested credit, and caused general pull up.

But just as till a crisis comes things always look better than they are; so, during a time of crisis they look worse than they are. Uncertainty aggravates the aspect of evils. But as a clear apprehension of the real state of things takes the place of vague alarm—as the exact causes of the evil become defined and discerned, and the remedies become visible confidence. and the remedies become visible, confidence returns, and credit where it is deserved gets re-established. Nothing, of course, in a time of difficulty can save those who have merely used credit to conceal the want of capital, or who have squandered their means in unprofitable transactions; but the case is different those who are engaged in legitimate and in the main profitable occupations, and to whom credit is a proper auxiliary to their operations.

New South Wales Riple Association.—A special general meeting of the committee of the Bills Association was held at the Brigade Office yesterday afternoon, Mr. Walter Lamb in the chair. The object of the meeting was to consider the expediency of joining Victoria and South Australia in the proposed match for the championship of the colonice, to take place in Melbourne after the interpolonial match. The objection urged against the proposition on a previous occasion, was principally on the ground of expense; but this difficulty having been met by a gutantee to give or collect the necessary amount for the cup next year, the opponents of the proposal now objected to it on the ground that the suggestion originated with the fifteen of this colony, and that the committee, having already determined to institute a champion-bilp for New South Wales, it was undesirable to have a second. The principal objection urged against it was by the chairman, who thought that the South Australians would probably compete for the prize this year, but that in future years they would neither ge to Melbourne or Sydney to shoot for it, nor contribute towards the expense of providing a cup for competition. Several members of the committee who had on provious occasions expressed themselves in favour of the championship being absent yesterday, the general feeling of the meeting was averas to having the decision praviously arrived at disturbed, except that the honorary secretary was requested to communicate with the honorary secretary was requested to communicate with the honorary secretary was requested to communicate who had the proviously arrived at disturbed, except that the role of the receiver was read to with the honorary secretary was requested to communicate for the cup, will be to subscribe and deposit the Communication, to state that the committee had no wish to oppose the communication, to state that the committee had no wish to oppose the communication, to state that the communication of the secretary was read from Captain Eastwood, NEW SOUTH WALES RIPLE ASSOCIATION .- A special

THE VICTORIA THEATHE.—The performances during the past week have been tolorably well patronised. On Monday, the musical drama, Rob Roy, was played. The Highland Chiefain found a suitable representative in Mr. Flüzgeridd, and Helen, in Mrs. Hobort Hoir. The other characters were also greditably systained. On Tuesday evening the crew of H.M.S. Brisk gave an absour entertainment, and played Harold Hawk and the Bton Boy, before a well filled house. The new drama Crohore of the Billhook, adapted from Banin's novel of that name, was troduced on Wednesslay evening. Mr. W. O'Noil, who ima'le his reappearance after a longthened illness, and played the pilleigal character, Crohore or Comor ms Bildney, war very warmly received. Mrs. Heir played Alley Doelling—the herone of the plot; Mr. Fitzgeridd, Jack Doran; Mr. C. Young, Andy Houlshan; and Mr. Mirm, Fierce Shes. The play, though not without intered, is decidedly too long and fully one-half of it might be advantageously excised. The most notice ble feature connected with it is the very creditable manner in which Mr. Hydes has placed it upon the stage, and the evident pales which the scenic artists have taken in their department. The echo cave and the waterfall scene are especially good, the sound and appearance of real water in the latter being decidedly novel. The piece has so far proved attractive and will likely run for several night lenger.

The Boileman Glassinowers.—The calertainments of these telepted attricts have presenguite as fashionable of these telepted attricts.

and will likely run for several nights longer.

The Bohemian Glassiklowers,—The entertainments of these talented artists have become quite as fashionable here as they have proved elsewhere, and the hall of the School of Aris is every oversing filled with pleasure or knowledge cockers, who cannot help admiring the delicate productions which they see made in their presence by simust wondrous manipulation and with artistic tasts. The three operatives have each their special departments, to which they confine themselves, and some of the more olaborate articles display the workmanship of each. Mr. Woodroffe's explanations of the various properties of glass, and modes of manufacture, are always laterned to with interest, and his short lectures on the steam-engine, illustrated by working models, are much appreciated. The gift department of the entertainment is not without its advantages, and the prize winners are invariably the most astified of the sudence. An afternoon entertainment will be given to-day, in addition to the usual one in the evening.

CASE OF W. H. SCOTT.

Mr. BUCHANAN seked the Attorney-General,—"1.

What was the reason, which led to the postponement of the case of William Henry Sost, charged with the ordine of murder? 2. Is the Attorney-General of opinion that the pestponement of this case till the month of February may result in the destruction of several important links in the chain of evidence at the present moment remarkably complete, and so defeat the ends of justice? 3. Under the improsion of this possible danger, and in the interests of public justice, is it the intention of the Attorney-General to place the prisener William Henry Scott on his trial, for the crime he is charged with, without delay?"

Mr. EPEARER ruled the second question out of order as involving matter of opinion.

Mr. MARTIN, in reply is the first and third questions had he believed the postponement referred to was ordered by Mr. Justice Checke, on the ground that the prisener could not get up his defonce, and procure his witnesses in time for the late sittings at Darlinghurst, and that the strong prejudice then esisting in the public mind against him would be likely to prevent a jury from giving an impartial verdict, unless the delay asked for were granted.

Mr. MAOFHERSON rose to move the following resolution,—"That an address be prevented to the Guvernor, praying his Excellency to recommend, by message to this House, the permanent appropriation out of the Consolidated Revenue Fund of the sum of 228,000 annually, for defraying the expense of public worship." The hon. gentleman said it was not his intention to address anything in the shape of a speech to the House on the precent occasion. The question had been so fully discussed, and there had been so much said in favour of the rosolution which he new hold in his hands, that there was nothing left to do than to carry it out. It had been discussed until hon, members had been disquisted with the reiteration of the arguments for and against it. Ho was, however, bound to say a flow words. Hon, members were aware that by the Grantist Public Worship Frohibition Act, these provisions were abolished except so far as concerned persons who were actually in receipt of State-aid, under that clause of the Constitution Act. All the persons in receipt of State-aid under that clause were still living, and were likely te live for many years to come, with the exception of about a dozen. The death of this dezen persons had had the effect of reducing the sum to about £28,000. All that the House was now saked to do was to continue the grant of £28,000 as it arow shood to future elergymen, with this important alteration,—that the granting of State-aid to rollgion should be limited to those persons and those localities where it was probable, from the character of the population, that they would not be able to assist themselves, it had been under the proposition was an attempt to gain an additional sum of £28,000. He did not think that one of the members who made that statement could believe i the opportunity of reading it again. It was to the following effect:—

A bill to restore the power to make grants of public money in ald of public worship.
Whereas it is expedient to repeal in part the "Grants for Public Worship Prohibition Act of 1862" and to review the enactments which were by that Act repealed, be it therefore enacted by the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the 'advice and consent of the Legislative Council and Legislative Assembly of New South Wales in Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

1. The "Orants for Public Worship Prohibition Act of 1852," with the exception of the third section thereof, shall be and the same is hereby repealed, the sain "Grants for Public Worship Act of the Act of the

Mr. DIGNAM said he had advocated the question of State-aid because he believed that such assistance was necessary to the ministrations of religion in the country distincts. But here were people who had no other occupation after they had had their breakfast than filling themselves with gas to spout. He (Mr. Dignam) could spout as well as other people, but if he were to "gas," and could not get it out quick enough, he should burst. (Laughter,) ife trusted that whatever might be the result of this question, he debate would be characterised by appropriate language and moderation of tone, (Hoer, hear.) The condition of the laburing class in this colony had become one of penury, and although their will might be good to support the ministrations of roligion they had not the means, nor could those means be fully furnished by the populous places of the colony. He thought be investment of meany would tell better on the moral tone of the community generally than the vote they were now discussing.

Mr. EGAN said he was astonished that the course adopted by the hon, member for East Maquurie should be tolerated in any way by those who were associated with him. The supporters of State-aid had not asid one unkind word of any minister of religion, or of any religion at all. The hon, member had changed his tone considerably since he lectured on the wrongs of Ireland; but that was an interested, occasion, and there was no more draw, ing thore, (Laughter.) The happenser of action. (Laughter.) He hoped this question would be dealt with in the same manner as any other public question, in a fair and impartial spirit, and without offensive imputations.

Mr. CUMMINGS said he wished to say a few words in regard to his honorable and unfortunate collesgue. (Laughter.) The language of the hon, member was desitute of that feeling which he assumed at one time human nature had denominations.

Mr. DJGNAM: Here's refermation to you.

Mr. DJGNAM: Speak to him like a father.

Mr. DJGNAM: Speak to him like a father.

Mr. DJGNAM: Speak to him like a father.

Mr. CUMMINGS: He had been deceived and disappointed by the eight of argument the hon, member (Mr. Buchanan) had adopted with regard to this and the education question; a person of his intelligence ought to have adhered to principle rather than resort to abuse. It was to be regretted that speeches made on these two questions should have been such as to cause a great deal of dissention among these whe, while worshipping according to their respective faiths, had yet mingled on terms of harmony in social life. He trusted that none would follow the hon, member's example in this respect—that there would be no further angry disputes, but that the Honse would be allowed to decide the question by vote.

Mr. BUCHANAN said, hon, members were attempting to place him in a false position when they sesumed that hon had been assailing toleration. They might worship who they pleased—the Devil if they liked; he admitted the free right of worship. They who accused him of evaling the principle of toleration either did willt injustice, or had no discrimination. So long as they only practised their faith, there was no fear of interference from him; he demanded for himself, and granted to others the right to worship God as they chose; but it was a different thing when these hon, members come to a secular Legislature to pass a resolution to take £25,000 of the people's money to support their rail-gion. If he denounced them for this, it became no question of toleration; but it was a different thing when these hon-poles in raligious belief, one body treating the other as horeites on the path to held, there was no fear of interference from him; he demanded for himself, and granted to others the right to worship God as they chose; but it was a different thing when these hon-poles in religions belief, one body treating the other as horeites on the path to held, th

Mr. DRIVER moved that the chairman leave the chair, report progress, and ask leave to sit again this day week. Mr. BUCHANAN supported the amendment. Mr. DIGNAM hoped that some of his friends whem he saw opposed to him on this question, would not be led by the hon. member for East Macquarie (Mr. Buchanan), but would doal with the question on its merits.

The motion that the Chairman leave the chair, &co., was then put, and a division called, when there appeared—Ayes, 22; nees, 25. The motion was therefore negatived. Mr. BUCHANAN moved that the sum be reduced by £27,099 19s, 114d.

627,999 19s. 11id.
Mr. HART rose to order. He submitted that this motion Mr. HART rose to order. He submitted that this metion was out of order, because it was a departure from the motion sent down to the committee by the House, recommending the consideration of the desirability of granting a specific sum. The sum was not to be reduced at all, because no sum had been voted by the House. It was not analogous to an item on the Bstimates, and could not be discussed in this way. It would be as well to save the House the trouble of having 28,000 divisions on this question, and therefore he contesded that the amendment of the hon. member was out of order.

Mr. HUCHANAN contended that the amendment was perfectly in order. The committee had to consider the amount to be granted, if any, and he could bring forward any motion for reducing it be chose to frame.

Mr. CUMMINGS said that in his opinion the amendment was out of order.

any motion for reducing it he chose to frame.

Mr. CUMMINGS sold that in his opinion the amendment was out of order.

Mr. MACPHERSON said that the proper time to move the reduction of this sum would be when the bill was brought down. The sum ought not to be reduced now.

Mr. PIDDINGTON said that any hon, member had a right to prepose any reduction of the sum that he pleased, and there was no distinction between the present case and a discussion of the Balimates.

Mr. OARRETT said that there were many cases in which the amounts of rotes passed in the House had been reduced in committee. The sum recommended to be voted to Mrs. Chisholm had been reduced in committee of Mrs. Chisholm had been reduced in committee.

Mr. HORBETTSON considered that it would simply be a waste of time to refer this matter as a point of order to the House. He should vote against it.

Mr. CUMMINGS was proceeding to say that he hoped the Chairman of Committees had sufficient human natureleft in him as not to lend himself to a violation of the usages of the House of Commons.

Mr. GARRETT stated the question, and told the hon member that he must confine himself to it.

Mr. PIDDINGTON contended that there was no necessity to appeal against the decision of the Chairman of Committees to the Speaker. It was the undoubted right of any hear member to seek to reduce any burden that was prepased to be laid on the people by moving a reduction as had been done in this case.

Mr. CUMMINGS proceeded to address himself to the hear, gentleman who had just sat down, and Mr. HART then called the hon, member to order.

Mr. CUMMINGS was obliged to the hon, member for calling attention to his divergence from the question. The hon, gentleman then proceeded to read some remarks about Tarban Creek supplied to him by another hon, member.

Mr. GAIRETT ruled him out of order.

Alexander Tighe Piddington Ivelers,

The Chairman left the chair,
Mr. OARRETT reported the point of order to the Speaker. The resolution of the committee was in the following terms:—"That the House having resolved to go into committee to consider the following resolution—"That an eddress be presented to the Governor, praying his Excellency to recommend by message to this House the permanent appropriation, out of the Consolidated Revenue Fund, of the sum of 28,000 annually for defraying the expense of Public Worship"—and an hon, member proposing that the sum be reduced by £27,990 19s. 119d, it is not in order to

Mr. SPEAKER said the point of order, as stated in the resolution, was not arguable. The House went into committee to consider of this resolution, and the committee to power to deal with it in any way whatever.

After some remarks from Mr. CUMMINGS,
Mr. PIDINGTON asked what question was before the House.

An hon, member suggested that Mr. Speaker should

House.

An hon, member suggested that Mr. Speaker should again leave the chair, and the House go into committee as before.

Mr. HART submitted that Mr. Speaker knew nothing of what had passed in committee.
Mr. GARRET said he submitted the motion to the Speaker in the exact terms. It did not ask leave to s't gain. Mr. SPEAKER said be asked the chairman in the usual

Mr. SPEAKER said he asked the chairman in the usual way what report was to be made. The Chairman told him that a point of order had arisen. He (Mr. Speaker) asked him whether leave to sit again had been asked, as usually would be the case, and the Chairman said "No." (Laughter; in the course of which Mr. Hart said he hoped the House would not be turned into a bear garden.)

After some remarks from Mr. MACPHERSON, who cited a case which he thought in point; and some further observations from Mr. CUMMINGS,

Mr. SPEAKER said: Where a committee made a report to the House, and did not ask leave to sit again, the ordinary practice was for the business of the committee to be considered at an end. The case cited by the hon. member for Central Cumberland (Mr. Macpherson) did not seem to have much bearing on the matter. Where a matter was objected to and argued, the decision might be cited as a precedent; but it was different where a course was taken by concurrence, no one objecting.

Mr. ISAACS quoted from page 263 of "May's Parlia-nentary Practice." No doubt this had reference to preecedings in the "House, apply to proceedings in "committee," ("No, no," and apply to proceedings in "committee," ("No, no," and laughter.)

Dr. LANG conceived that the case adduced was not one in point at all, referring as it did only to the preliminaries necessary to enable a now member to take his seet, and such a precedent could not govern the point now in issue. It was a remarkable fact that in cases in which gentlemen endeavoured to pursue unwarrantable courses to obtain their own ends, they were often defeated by neglecting some small matter of provision to establish their point.

Mr. DRIVER said it was a pity the Solicitor-General

Mr. DRITYER said it was a pity the Solicitor-General did not take the trouble to read a little further before attempting to set the Speaker right.

Mr. 1SAACS said he felt tender on the subject. If he had known that Mr. Speaker had decided he should not have said so much, and he still believed that Mr. Speaker had not decided.

had not decided.

Ar. SPEARER sald he did not intend to give a decision upon the point. It was one that had never occurred to him before.

Mr. DRIVER cited a case in point from May, to the effect that when, in committee, any doubt arcse upon a point of order which might appear beyond the province of the Chairman to decide, the Chairman should be directed to leave the chair, report progress, and ask leave to sit again, in order that the point might be reported to the House.

House.

Mr. HART did not consider this case in point, and said it had never been our practice in directing that a point of crder be reported to the House to sek leave to sit again. If it was necessary to do so, it was for the Chairman of Committees to mention it or propose it himself.

Mr. MACPHERSON moved that the Speaker leave the chair, and that the committee resume.

Mr. BUCHANAN objected to this motion without notice,

Mr. BUCHANAN objected to this motion without notice.

Mr. HART said it was the duty of the Chairman, if he knew the rule of Parliament, to have added the words to the metion or to have suggested them. So far as our practice was concerned, it appeared from the proceedings that on the 31st May, 1895, a point of order was reported to the House without any motion that the committee sit again, and after it was decided the committee resumed.

Mr. SPEAKER said he had no difficulty in arriving at a corclusion on the point, as in May, page 351, it was clearly laid down that the metion for reporting a point of order to the House must include a report of progress and request of leave to sit again. There were instances in which as it was not intended to resume no such leave was asked. The metion for going into committee having seat and reported without obtaining leave to sit again, they were now exactly in the position as when a committee resumed and no report was made. The next business now was the next Order of the Day.

Mr. BUCHANAN objected. There was no question

Mr. SPEARER: Then the hon. member was out of order. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. MACPHERSON: The hon. member has no right to all a supplet him sit down. (Laugher.)

Mr. SPEAKER: The hon. member may move the adjournment of the House, and if that were negatived, the next thing would be to proceed to the next order of the day. Mr. MACPHERSON said he only wanted to say a dozen words on the point, as other members had spoken on the distribution of the control of the speaker.

Mr. PIDDINGTON thought they sheuld conduct their bear of the control wanted to a supplement of the House, or move a motion condemning the ruling of the Speaker.

Mr. MACPHERSON: When the hon. member desired to address the House, he could either move the adjournment of the House, or move a motion condemning the ruling of the Speaker.

Mr. MACPHERSON: When the hon. member for Beat Sydney (Mr. Hart) made that motion, he was called upon by the control of the speaker.

Mr. MACPHERSON: Then he would move the adjournment of the House, as he wasted to allude to the circumstance.

Mr. MACPHERSON: Then he would move the adjournment of the House, as he wasted to allude to the circumstance.

Mr. SPEAKER asid the hon. member had moved that he (the Speaker) leave the chair in order that the conmittee movement of the House, as he wasted to allude to the circumstance of the chair in order that the condition of the chair in th no doubt as to the course to be pursued. The committee had not asked for leave to sit again, and must therefore had not asked for leave to sit again, and must therefore lepse.

Mr. GARRETT claimed the indulgence of the House, in order that he might defend his conduct, which had been inpurpued. Hen, members who took a particular view of the question had asserted that the course had taken was incerrect, and that some hon, nembers had said that it was his (Mr. Garrett's) duty to correct the error in the motion submitted by Mr. Hart. He should not argue that point at all, but he would leave it to the Speaker to say whether it was in his (Mr. Garrett's) power to alter any resolution submitted to him as Chairman of Committees. If he had that power, he might alter a resolution into something directly opposite to the intention of the mover. The motion that the chairman leave the chair was often made with the distinct purpose of superseding the business before the committee. [Crice of "Oh, oh."] He did not say that in this case the motion was made with that purpose. He had never thought at all shout the matter, or considered whether the words omitted should be acked or not. He had thought no more about the matter than the hon, member who had submitted the motion, whose duty it was to think of the matter, as a matter of fact, he (Mr. Garrett) had, when the resolution was first submitted, ruled a portion of it out of order, because it was obviously so. And when the House he submitted the point of order was decided. He thought it would be as well if the Speaker gave the House his ruling as to whether the Chairman of Committees had power to alter any resolution submitted to him.

Nr. EGAN said he would also ask the Speaker whether it was no thus contracts.

Committees any power of the Market and the Speaker whether it was not unprecedented for a Chairman of Committees, when an hon, member moved him out of the chair to call upon that hon, member to put his motion in writing.

Mr. SPEAKER said that unless distinctly appealed to the company of the chair to give any opinion as to the powers of that hon, member to put his motion in writing.

Mr. SPEAKER said that unless distinctly appealed to it was not his duty to give any opinion as to the powers of the Chairman of Committees. The House had had opportunities of judging as to that gentleman's fitness for the office, and the way in which he performed his duties. He thought it was a matter of great difficulty and delicacy for the Chairman of Committees to interfere in any way with the course which any hon, member proposed to take in the House, and if in ordinary cases this difficulty presented itself, still more unwilling should he be to make any suggestions whatever upon questions in which party feeling ran high. He should put the motions to the committee precisely as they were submitted. It was not unusual to put motions in writing. That was indeed in strict accordance with a Standing Order of the House.

Mr. MACPHERSON moved the adjournment of the House all the facts of the case, but had omitted the comment that he (hir. Macpherson) would supply. The hon, gentleman that he (hir. Macpherson) would supply. The hon, gentleman had said that he did not know that the object of the motion was not to dissolve the committee altogether. He did not suppose that there was a single member of the House who believed that that was the intention. The Speaker had just informed the House that, he seeing the intermedity, was about to leave the chair without motion being made, in order to get over the difficulty. The hon, member (Mr. Garrett) must have been aware of the effect of the Speaker adoing that, for to prevent his duing so he had called upon him (Mr. Macpherson) to make a motion that had the effect of the Speaker worts suffered to leave the chair without motion. He (Mir. Macpherson) had accepted the hom, member's suggestion as made in good faith, and the rise had for the present succeeded. But he hoped that when the loped for the present accepted of the hoped was awarehat if the Speaker were suffered to leave the chair without motion of the Chairman was awareha dispute his ruling he thought he would not be in order in addressing the Honse.

Mr. MACPHERSON only desired to say a dozen words, Mr. SPEAKER said he would withfraw his opinion for the present, to enable the hon, member to address the House.

Mr. MACPHERSON: When the hon, member for East Sydney, Mr. Hart, moved that the point of order be reported to the House.

Mr. SPEAKER said, that the hon, member could not refer to anything that took place in committee. The hon, member must confine himself to the question as to whether the Speaker should leave the chair could be entertained. It was a dry question of Parliamentary practice. After certain proceedings in committee, in compliance with an Order of the Day, a point of order was reported to the House, and that having been disposed of, the hon, member moved, "That the Speaker leave the chair, and the committee summe." Any observations on that motion would be in order, but the hon, member could not refer to anything that took place in committee.

Mr. MACPHERSON is by implication it was moved, or meant to be moved, that leave be asked to sit again, hut he could not say what he decired to say without narrating the circumstances.

Mr. SPEAKER: The hon, member cannot narrate the circumstances.

Mr. MACPHERSON desired to say that it was the Chairman of Committees ought to have devisted from theordinary course, to have allowed that the hon member for the present of the properties of the pr member had made his unmanly attack on the Chairman of Committees. The hon, members had been endeavouring to rob the public treasury, and had been caught in their own trap.

Mr. DONNELLY rose to order.

Mr. PERKER was understood to rule that the hon, member was in order.

Mr. BUCHANAN would proceed to show that the hon, member had been endeavouring to plunder the public purso, had committed suicide, and deserved a place in a criminal dock. He congratulated the House on their ignominious defeat, for he should have gone on moving reductions farthing by farthing, and that would have involved 26,500,000 divisions, which it would have involved and frowned on their iniquity, and had produced the signal and prenature discomittees during the long time that he had frowned on their iniquity, and had produced the signal and prenature discomittees during the long time that he had held that office would think that he had for one moment been guilty of the conduct imputed to him by the hon. member (Mr. Macpherson). The resolution had been propared by an eminent lawyer, who had taken ample time before submitting it; and he thought that the Chairman had clearly done his duty in the matter. He thought that after the intemperate speeches we had heard on both sides, the best thing that would have acted on both sides, the best thing that would have acted on both, and the should vote for that proposition.

Mr. FORSTER thought that the suggestion thrown out by the hon. member was a good one, and that the House could not do better than adjourn. He felt bound to say that the chairman of bute to him any metives in connection with the main quostion.

Mr. DE SALIS differed from the hon, member who had just sat down in regard to the Chairman of Committees. While he did not impute to him such motives as had been imputed by the hon, member for Central Cumberland, still he did not consider him free from blame. He thought the hon, member (Mr. Macpherson) spoilt his case by his imputations. The Chairman of Committees must have known the object of the committee, and he (Mr. De Salis) considered that he had been guilty of neglect. It was a pity so much time should be lost by a mere quibble in consiquence of the ignorance or neglect of the Chairman of Committees. He wished the hon, member for East Macquarie joy of his easy victory. But what one side of the House could do the other side of the House could do also.

Mr. DRIVER: The other side did all to-night. (Laughter.)

(Laughter.)
Mr. DE SALIS thought the Chairman of Committees ought to have noticed the emission and called the attention

Mr. DRIVER: The other side of the House could do also.

Mr. DRIVER: The other side did all to-night.

(Laughter.)

Mr. DE SALIS thought the Chairman of Committees ought to have noticed the omission and called the attention of the mover to the matter.

Mr. MARTIN soid that perhaps it would be better to make this a substantial motion by agreeing to it were it not that there was an order on the paper for an adjourned debate. The reason that the adjournment took place was that the House was not so full as was desirable. There was now a full House and it would be well to dispose of that matter.

DRIP, DONNELLY soid the paper for an adjourned debate. The reason that the opposition benches.

Mr. SPEAKER said he did not understand the words to have been so npplied.

Mr. DONNELLY so understood him, and wing the Speaker did not rule him out of order, he supposed that to same extent they were to consider themselves such. He would, however, remind the hon, member for East Macquaric that a liar was werse than a thief. When they saw a liar placed in a position where he was surrounded by privileges which permitted him to indulge in the gravest falsehoods and to abuse the most secred and holy things, and when he took a cowardly advantage of his position to indulge in most detestable blasphemies, which he would not have the courage to nitter in another place—

Mr. SPEAKER said the hon, member was not in order if he intended to apply that language to any hon, member of the Assembly.

Mr. BUCHANAN: If he comes outside, Mr. Speaker, I'll roar it find his ear. (Laughter.)

Mr. DONNELLY: When he would do that, surrounded by sil those circumstances, his conduct was great deal worse than the mest detestable thief that ever disgraced humanily.

Mr. SPEAKER said the hon, member of the responsibility of the Chairman or Speaker in regard to question submitted had arisen, perhaps he might read to the House the rule laid down in May. (Mr. Speaker ran from page 225 of May's Fractice of Farliament, to the effect that a motion should be carefu resolution to accomplish an articular purpose there could of course have been no objection to his giving that information.

Mr. HAY, in explanation of what appeared the proper and regular mode of dealing with matters of order arising in committee and with regard to their reference to the House, said if the Chairman of Committees had studied the practice of the House of Commons he might have acted differently, although in what he did he might have been actuated by very proper motives. There was little doubt that it was his duty to put the motion simply as it was pat to him, but at the same time the proceedings of the House on this and similar occasions might probably be more advantageously carried out by adherence to the practice of the House on this and similar occasions might probably be more advantageously carried out by adherence to the practice of the House of Commons. The House of Commons was never directly informed by report of a point of order; whom a point of order was referred to the House the motion being simply that the chairman leave the obair, report progress, and ask leave to sit again. When the discussion, if any, upon the opint of order in the House terminated, and the question was concluded, the Speaker was moved from the chair and the committee resumed. We had certainly got into the habit, instead of reporting progress, or reporting the point of order, and this, no doubt, had led to a certain amount of misunderstanding. The committee would studity itself if it reported the point of order to the House without asking leave to sit again, because there would be no use in such a robert of the point of order to the House without asking leave to sit again, because there would be not seen as a strian, as he had avoided giving a tote on the question under the consideration of the committee; then the business would have suffered no such interruption. Any observations he (Mr. Hay) had now made were made not as a partisan, as he had voided giving a tote on the question under the consideration of the commi of the Home might be carried on in the most regular manner possible.

The motion that the House do now adjourn was negatived by a majerity of 24 to 15.

MEMBERS TRAVELLING BY RATEWAY.

The House proceeded to resume the adjourned debate, on the metion of Mr. Cowper, "That an address be presented to the Governor, praying that his Excellency, will be pleased to cause to be laid on the table of this House, a return of all opinions given by Grown Law Officers respecting the power of the Executive Government, to grant free railway tikels to members of Parliament, and of any correspondence which has taken place between the Secretary for Public Works and members of Parliament upon the subject.

Public Works and members of Rarliament upon the subject.

Mr. DRIVER understood from what fell from the Premier a few minutes since, that this debate was adjourned the other versing in consequence of the thin attendance in the House. At present there was a numerous attendance, and it would be as well to go to the vote. He (Mr. Driver) understood the debate was adjourned in order to give the Government an opportunity of consulting together as to whether these papers should be produced or not. He had not written any letter in reference to this matter, indeed he had voted for a motion condemning the course the Government had taken in granting free passes by rail-way. He had not availed himself of the privilegs of travelling free by railway. He understood that many of the people out of doors were anxious to peruse this correspondence, and he could net see upon decrement could refuse to produce it.

The motion for the insertion of the words was put as agreed to:

Mr. ROBERTSON suppoced from the silence of the Government that they intended to oppose this motion. To adjournment of the debats was carried for the avowed pupose to enable the Secretary for Works to be present order that he may have an opportunity of laying, before thouse the opinions of the Pennier, and the corresponden which the Fremier had said was not in existence.

Mr. MARTIN rese to order. The amendment moved I the hon, member for West Macquaris (Mr. Driver) he been put and agreed to, and it was the invariable practite take the division on the main question immediately aft.

Mr. GARRETT, on the point of order, said he recollected eases in which quertious had been debated after the motion had been memended.

Mr. ROBERTSCN roumend. Two opinions on the quiestion of free passes by railway had been given by the Attorneys-General, and he demanded in the name of the country to see them. Two Attorneys-General had decide that the practice was illegals and the Gevernment of which the Attorneys-General had decide that the practice was illegals and the Gevernment of which the Attorneys-General had decidered to be Biegal, but that-bill was thrown-out. Not withstanding this, the Gevernment had acted-nat hooging in a bill to legalize which the initiation of the grosses possible system of corruption. One of these document which he desired to see produced was written by the Premier himself behind the back of the Parliament and the people. It may be said that this was a very small job. Inc. to the less restricts. Had so he he had the head of the Parliament and the people. It may be said that this was a very small job. Inc. to the less restricts. Had so he he had the head of Parliament to go further, and vots for the payment of monthers; but let it not be done behind the back of Parliament and the people. It appeared that the Government, however, did of further, and vots for the payment of monthers; but let it not be done behind the back of Parliament and the following the people. It appeared that the Government, however, did the following the people of the payment of matter. It was the duty of Parliament to inest on seeing these papers. He foll degraded to find a Government privileg such a course in regard to his matter. The Gevornment, however, did the the payment of the Ministery would have been made an accomplished friend Mr. Owever, that they did not desire the papers relating to the matter, it was the duty of Parliament to inest on seeing these papers were not to be given was because they had beam moved for by his hon, and did light they had a ctod wrongly or not, he believed they would not heestitate to-say that they did not desire the papers was because they had beam moved from the papers. The house of the papers were they h in the House—we should, notwithstanding the view the Government took of their duty, prove that, hewever they had involved themselves in a business of an ambiguous character, they were not disposed to withheld information concerning it that the public were entitled to-peacess.

Mr. MORRICE said, he was neither shumed nor afraid of any one knowing what he had done, either in or out of the House, so that his vote would be given accordingly.

Mr. OATLEY felt it his duty to vote against the production of the papers, believing that no possible good could arise from it.

Mr. COWPER, in reply, went into a statement of the facts and circumstances connected with this question, to show that neiwithstanding the adverse epinions of Orown have officers, and the rejection in March, 1854, of a bill to legalize the granting of this free railway travelling to members of the House, this Government had, by their own confession, granted this privilege on the ground of a resolution previously passed in Soplember, 1863. Three Attorneys-General had given epinions to the effect that the clauses referred to in support of granting this privilege, did not confer the authority. This matter could not be called trifling after on much had been said about it—after so many legal opinions had been given, and after legislation had been attempted. He thought he was justified under the circumstraces, in asking for these papers. It was said the bon. Attorney-General had promised several hon, members that if they would vote against the motion he would lay them on the table vote against the motion he would lay them on the table vote sed his ticket would commit a fraud on the public Tho transaction was the more disgracefal on account of it paltry nature. The intention of the Government could have been only to bribe and corrupt the Ann., gentlemen, which had accepted the bon at their hands.

The question was put and negatived on the followin division:—

The Darling Division, consisting f

THE WEST BOGAT.

THE DARLING,

THE LOWER WARKHO,

THE LOWER WARKHO,

THE UPPER WARKHO,

And

THURULGUNIA STATINS.

In all 45 blocks, and contining an art of

1,499,060 Acres of Grazing Cantry, consisting to a great extent of fine operational plains of the most fattening description, interested by boils of timber, and abundantly watered by th Darling, Bogan, and Warrego Rivers, to which they have total frontage of about

These runs will be sold with said to be in excellent condition, and irinding a large proportion of breeding ewes.

The capabilities of this country can excell be calonised, but, at a moderate estimate, it ought towary 160,000 sheep. The improvements comprise all rulsites for efficient management.

THE LACILIAN DIVISION, consisting of the
WILLANDRA STATIONS,
BADJERABONG STATIONS,

BADJERABONG STATONS,

BILLABONG STATONS.

In all 24 blocks, and containing an rea of about

805,840 acros,
of country, which may be divided in three classes—the Willandra being very fattening for shep; the lladjerabong excellent as a breeding station; andthe Billabong equally valuable as a summer run and rings for stock in dry seasons.

With these stations will be sold 10,000 Shee;
of good ages, and in first-rule condition.

The Willandra Billabong, and the ountry consists of open saltbush plains, excellent for fattening and topping up stock for market. The Badjerabong Sides a have considerable frontage to the Upper Lachlan, an are abundantly watered in all seasons. This country i well adapted for young stock. The Billabong country inseed as a summer run in seasons of severe drought, and wi carry a very large number of sheep. It is mountainour, ad abounds in permanent or classes. The inprovements on the Badjebong Stations are most complete, and comprise first-clas house, woolshed for 20
shearers, and, in fact, every require.

Should the stations not be solidn two lots as above, they will then be offered separatally, as Blows:—

THE DARLINGDIVISION,
As follow:
THE UPPER WARHGO STATIONS,

Upper Warrego, at a portion of the river containing broad deep reaches of permanent watermiles in length. The area is about

And they will seeld with 25,000 seep.

A sonsiderable proportion of his country is really of the very cholocet description, beautifully grassed, and abounding in autritious herbs. Its spabilities can scarcely be estimated at less than 60,000 seep. Improvements somprize all regulaites.

THE LOWER WARREO and THURULGUNIA
STATONS,
Consisting of 32 blocks, estaining an area of about 889, 260 area,
Togethr with 25,000 Sheep

of fair ages and sexes.

These runs include a large atont of first-rate fattening country, consisting of excelsis saltbush plains. There is about 260 miles frontage to she side of the Warrego, also to the Thurulgunia Creek. De capabilities ought to be at least 50,000 sheep. The DARLING and WET BOGAN STATIONS consisting of thirtee runs, containing an area

417,800 acres of six-class country, together with 25,000 hoep,

of fair ages and sexes.

These runs comprise the biolesst portion of the Bogan country, splendidly watered and richly grassed. The capabilities can scarcely be ver-estimated, and, at the very lowest calculation, 6000 sheep ought to be depastured with case. As faming country, this is almost unequalled in the colonies. here are substantial improvements, such as homesteadabuts, woolshed, yards, fencing, &c.
